The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie AP War Analyst

THE GREAT withdrawal of Hitler's forces on the Russian front has taken on so much of the nature of a rout as to rank with Dunkerque as one of the pivotal crises of the whole war.

What started out as a planned withdrawal has deteriorated so rapidly under the pile-driver blows of the Red forces that the German high command is now faced with the problem of whether the Nazi armies can reach their prepared defenses west of the Dnieper river and avert a major disaster. If they do achieve that hat-trick, they still must look back on one of the most costly retreats of history, both in men and materiel.

As this is written the unbelievable Red armies are almost at the line of the Dnieper at several points. They're just about where they were two years ago when Hitler was smashing them back with arrogant assurance.

The whole unwieldy German right wing, stretching 750 miles from Smolensk in the north to the Crimea in the south, is shivering and cracking under the fierce Red assaults. The Russians are close to Kiev and Smolensk, strategic strong-points in the Nazi front.

Moscow is watching the battle for these two cities confidently, expectantly. Smolensk is one of the important crossings of the upper Dnieper. This ancient city of Boris Godunov, long a prize of wars, is the gateway to Moscow. But it's a gateway that swings both ways, as Bonaparte discovered when his shattered troops fled back through there in the snows of 1812. Kiev, capital of the golden Ukraine for which Hitler sold his soul to the devil, is also a Dnieper crossing which is a life-line for the hard pressed invaders.

This much must be said for the German retreat: Only generalship of the highest order could have preserved even the semblance of a line in face of the terrific Russian striking power. Morale of the Nazi troops also must have been steady to permit of such an operation.

THE QUESTION now is whether the Germans can steady themselves on the Dnieper line and hold. It would be rash to jump to the conclusion that they can't do this, especially with the fall rains coming to slow the Russians down. However, we're justified in noting that they are in a precarious position.

Whether the Nazis hold on the Dnieper, we are witnessing the breaking up of Hitler's power. He is definitely on the defensive, and will so continue, with lessening resistance, until the end. This doesn't mean that we might not see him undertake further offensives, but anything of that nature will be an act of desperation and still defensive.

All the signs are that the Fuehrer's role now is to battle for time—time which he hopes may in some way enable him to maneuver himself into a favorable position for a negotiated peace. It's a safe bet right now that he would give him any Allied terms which would give him a lease of life and allow him to return to his old boundaries. Why, because the German war lords, who represent some of the best military brains in the world, know they are beaten.

That doesn't mean, though, that they aren't going to fight on. They are bound to continue resistance.

RAF BOMBERS BLAST FOUR NAZI CITIES

Thirty-Two Planes Fail to Return From Second Heavy Attack

(By Associated Press) LONDON, Sept. 24.—In their second heavy blow in 24 hours against Nazi industrial and transportation centers, a fleet of big RAF bombers blasted four German cities last night, heavily bombing the twin towns of Mannheim-Ludwigshafen and hitting Darmstadt, 35 miles northeast of Mannheim, and Aachen, near Cologne. Thirty-two bombers failed to return.

The twin cities at the junction of the Rhine and Neckar rivers shuddered under the impact of 1,500 long tons (1,730 U. S. tons) in 45 minutes—17 tons a minute less than the record load dumped on Hamburg—in a sequel to the Wednesday night attack on Hannover.

American Marauders carried the latest big-scale aerial assault into its third day with another daylight raid on the Evreux-Fauville air base 45 miles west of Paris which they also hit Wednesday. Today's operation was the Marauders' seventh in seven days.

Attacks Continue Other formations of bombers crossed the coast during the early afternoon to continue the daylight attacks.

It was the second big attack in less than three weeks on Mannheim-Ludwigshafen, Germany's second largest inland port, through which large quantities of coal and other vital supplies are transhipped to Italy. Aachen, hit 16 times before, is a key railroad and highway point through which moves much of Hitler's supplies and reinforcements for the west wall.

The three-pronged attack—rounding off the French coast, raiding fortresses and medium Allied bombers yesterday to make the 24-hour raids probably the heaviest day and night operations of the war.

Nantes, French Atlantic port, was raided twice in daylight yesterday by the big American bombers, their first repeat raid within 12 hours. Fortifications hit Intruder aircraft, joining the RAF's big bombers in last night's raiding, shot down four enemy planes, the British announced. Fortifications along the French coast shook in explosions reminiscent of the earlier days of the war.

The Vichy radio, in a report not confirmed by any Allied source, said "American planes" attacked Paris last night, starting a fire in the Magasin Du Midi store. It said one of the raiders was shot down.

Postoffice Plans No Time Change

The local postoffice will continue to operate on War time instead of reverting to Eastern Standard schedule Sunday. The postoffice hours are planned to conform with train schedules to railway mail service which remain unchanged.

The difference between postoffice War time and the new city or "slow" time will be apparent, Postmaster A. E. Beardmore points out, in the following new schedule: Window service—6 a. m. to 5 p. m. (city time); money order window—8 a. m. to 4 p. m. (city time). Principal mail dispatches—5 a. m., 6:50 a. m., 8 a. m., 9:30 a. m., 1:20 p. m., 1:50 p. m., 2:20 p. m., 4:30 p. m., 5 p. m., 6:50 p. m. (all city time).

Mail will be received at—4 a. m., 6 a. m., 6:50 a. m., 9:30 a. m., 10:30 a. m.; 1:30 p. m., 1:50 p. m., 3 p. m., 6 p. m. (all city time). Star route connections will be made under the present time setup.

ONLY ONE CHANGE IN SCHOOL HOURS

Salem public schools will continue to operate on the present time schedule, with one exception, beginning Monday, when the city's clocks will be turned back one hour on Eastern Standard time. The High school will open 15 minutes earlier in the morning, at 8:45, instead of 9, and will continue to dismiss at 3:40 p. m. Classes at other buildings will take up and dismiss as usual.

$1,599,351 In Bond Sales, City Report

Sales: $1,599,351.15 Quota: $1,915,000 With sales of $1,599,351.15 reported at the close of business last night, Salem had reached 83 and a half per cent of its quota in the Third War Loan drive, with six more days to go. Total sales had reached 3,512, with several hundred more expected before the close of the drive.

Although $315,648 in Bonds must be sold if the quota of $1,915,000 is reached, city campaign leaders today predicted that the drive will go well over the top. In the last two days sales exceeded $400,000 and pledges were completing their orders in greater numbers each day.

The picture in the county campaign is not so rosy, however. County Chairman L. H. Colley reported sales of $3,877,994, or only about 61 per cent of the county quota of $6,362,000. The county is lagging behind in Area 1, being in 16th place among the 26 counties in the area. Towns in the northern half of the county were reporting much progress, but East Liverpool's report was lagging far behind all others, and there is doubt whether that city can come within striking distance of its goal.

To help bring the county up to its quota before the drive ends, every effort will be made to push Salem's sales as far beyond its quota as possible.

TOLEDO SCHOOLS TO OPEN MONDAY

TOLEDO, Sept. 24.—Toledo's 64 public schools, closed since Sept. 15 by a strike of non-educational employees, will reopen Monday under an agreement approved by the strikers and ratified by the board of education. Proposed by a citizens' committee, the settlement grants a $20 a month wage increase from Sept. 1 to Dec. 31, to maintenance personnel. The strikers first asked $30 a month "cost of living" increases.

Under the agreement, the 300 service employees agree however, to return to the Sept. 1 pay scale Jan. 1 if, in the meantime, a levy fails to pass and other possible sources of additional income for the board do not materialize. Teachers have asked a salary increase, but did not join the walkout.

Grand Jurors Urge County Jail As Post-War Project

LISBON, Sept. 24.—Commending post-war planning for construction of a new jail for Columbiana county and the immediate establishment of a cell-room in the courthouse for temporary confinement of prisoners, the September grand jury completed a three-day session and reported to Judge Joel H. Sharp late Thursday afternoon. The grand jurors investigated 36 criminal matters and examined 68 witnesses before returning 18 indictments, seven of which remain secret. Seven other cases were ignored, one was continued and four cases were referred to the probate court.

Foremost among the indictments made public at this time are two charges of grand larceny returned against John Paul Kistler of Salem, who is charged with the theft of money from the homes of two Salem women.

Other true bills include an indictment against Harvey Williams of East Liverpool for breaking and entering; a joint indictment against William Place, George M. Guidoo and Spencer Riden of East Liverpool, for breaking and entering; Eddie Taylor of Lisbon, also charged with breaking and entering; Richard Munroe of East Liverpool is charged with unarmed robbery.

Raymond Shields of West Point, George M. Guidoo and Earl Tucker of East Liverpool, are jointly charged with auto theft in another indictment. Frank Rohan of Salem also was indicted for auto theft. Herman Schukert of East Liverpool was indicted on a charge of assault with intent to rape while Millard Haas of Fairfield township and Robert Senior of Leontonia, were indicted on charges of assault and battery.

Passenger Train Strikes Automobile Near Coshocton, Killing 7

(By Associated Press) WEST LAFAYETTE, Sept. 24.—A passenger train smashed into an automobile and killed seven war workers here early today.

Coroner E. C. McDill said the driver of the machine waited for a freight switch engine to clear a crossing near the Moore enameling plant, where the eight were employed, and then drove into the path of the east-bound passenger. The automobile was struck near the rear and flipped across an embankment. Bodies of the victims were scattered along the right-of-way.

McDill identified the dead as: Evelyn Carr, 18, of West Lafayette.

Helen Alloway, 17, of Coshocton; Betty Ashman, 22, of Coshocton; Charles Barstow, 18, of Coshocton; Raymond Everhart, 49, of Coshocton.

Vaneta Reddick, 19, of West Lafayette; Leslie Folger, owner and driver of the car of Coshocton. All except Folger were killed outright. He died in a Coshocton hospital.

Both West Lafayette and Coshocton are in Coshocton county. Dr. McDill said the train was an eastbound Pennsylvania railroad passenger and was reported undamaged.

The automobile was struck only a few minutes after its occupants ceased work at midnight.

Columbus Doctor Sued

COLUMBUS, Sept. 24.—Agnes Wagner, 18-year-old daughter of Homer Wagner of Washington Court House, filed suit in common pleas court here asking $50,000 damage against Dr. Richard L. McFarland of Columbus. Miss Wagner charged the physician failed to set properly an arm broken in an accident last June 25.

REDS IMPERIL NAZI POSITION BELOW RIVER

Soviet Dispatch Claims Russians Reach Dnieper In Force

(By Associated Press) LONDON, Sept. 24.—The Red army has reached the Dnieper in force, and other Soviet units north-west of Smolensk have reached the village of Tarasenk, only three miles from the border of White Russia, Soviet dispatches said today.

The German high command said the Russians already were making heavy thrusts in efforts to cross the Dnieper, but declared they were repulsed.

With the Red army only nine miles from Smolensk, after capturing Luzanovo, the Germans were in immediate danger of losing their central front citadel, which they have held since the early days of their smash toward Moscow.

German forces are abandoning their Kuban bridgehead in the Caucasus, the Berlin radio announced as Russian troops threatened to engulf Nazi positions along the lower Dnieper and still further north moved within artillery range of Smolensk.

Nazis Remove Equipment In a broadcast record by Reuters the Nazi Transocean news agency said:

"The Germans are systematically evacuating heavy equipment, important installations and civilians from the Kuban bridgehead."

This German admission followed by some 36 hours Russian announcement of the capture of Anapa, last Black sea port held by the Nazis on the Taman peninsula.

As a result of steady Russian advances in the Kiev sector, meanwhile, the situation of the German forces along the bend of the lower Dnieper appeared to be growing more critical by the hour.

(The British radio, quoting reports from Moscow, declared the Russians were "so close to the Dnieper river at some points they can shell enemy positions on the other side, CBS said. Russian spearheads, the Broadcast said, have blasted through the outer defenses of Kiev to within 10 miles of the Ukrainian capital.)

Kiev itself was in imminent danger from Russian columns operating to both north and south. A Moscow communique indicated the Russians were developing a pincer movement aimed at Cherkask, 90 miles to the southeast, and at the junction of the Pripiet and Dnieper rivers, 55 miles to the north.

Open Way for Advance Capture of Poltava yesterday gave the Russians control of a 300-mile stretch of territory bordering the middle Dnieper, between Dnepropetrovsk and Chernigov, and opened the way for a direct advance on Cherkask and Kremenchug, both important enemy bases on the Dnieper.

Rev. Magann Heads Baptist Meeting

Rev. S. T. Magann was re-elected as moderator of the Foster Baptist convention when the 104th annual session was held yesterday at the Newman Baptist church.

Other officers included: Vice moderator, Rev. C. H. Kern of Canton; clerk, Miss Ada Davis of Newman. E. F. Sherrett of Newman was re-elected as treasurer.

Those attending from Salem included Mrs. H. W. Young, Louis J. Raymond, Benjamin Engle, Mrs. Frank Brudery, Miss Frances Leasure, Mrs. Richard Stirling, Mrs. Frank Weltz, Rev. and Mrs. Magann, Mrs. C. V. Williams, Mrs. Leroy Hartzough, Mrs. Reed Calkins, C. A. Alder and Mrs. Madeline Cosgrove.

Rev. and Mrs. F. W. McDermitt, convention state officers, and Miss "Bie Kittitz of Swatow, China, were principal speakers.

In the evening Dr. Paul Judson Morris, executive secretary of the Ohio Baptist convention spoke on "For Such a Time as This."

Next year's convention will be held at the Maryland Avenue church in Canton.

Warren Driver Hurt As Car Hits Rear of Truck

Minor injuries were sustained by Andrew Comanescu, 22, of Warren, in the collision of his car and a truck driven by Kenneth Bennett, 24, of R. D. 1, Berlin Center, at 7 p. m. yesterday on Route 45, just north of Salem. The Comanescu car struck the rear of the Bennett vehicle as both cars moved south along the highway. Comanescu suffered minor lacerations of one hand and body bruises.

General Clark Starts March Toward Naples

(By Associated Press) ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 24.—The Fifth army launched a full-scale offensive against German mountain positions guarding the route to Naples, it was announced today, while Allied motor torpedo boats stabbed into Valona harbor on the coast of Albania and sank two enemy vessels.

The onslaught by Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's American and British soldiers from their hard-won Salerno positions was accompanied by an intensification of the blockade of the waning German position on the island of Corsica. There RAF Beaufighters sliced into German air transport formations engaged in evacuating the enemy forces and shot down seven of the planes.

The communique from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters said the Fifth army had captured Oliveto-Cittra, 24 miles east of Salerno, while Matera, 36 miles northwest of Taranto, had been captured on the British front.

An official announcement said Altamura, 42 miles northwest of Taranto and 10 miles north of Matera, also had been captured.

The drive against Naples, Italy's second greatest port, was launched after a period of consolidation of the Allied springboard and while the Germans were reported engaged in large-scale demolitions, apparently with the idea of making the harbor installations useless when the Allies occupy the city.

Naples Citizens Fight Nazis (The Allied-controlled Palermo radio, in a broadcast reported today to the Office of War Information, said Italians escaping from Naples reported residents of the city were battling Germans in the streets, firing at the enemy from the windows of their homes or using stones if without firearms.

(Citizens who rebel without any inquiry by the German officials, the broadcast said, "Numerous Italian officers and soldiers have also been shot on grounds of non-collaboration.")

Driving northward into strongly defended saw-toothed positions, Clark's troops encountered heavy artillery and mortar opposition as well as minefields, and a spokesman said they were making slow progress.

The fighting is bitter and severe," he said. "The enemy obviously intends to hold onto Naples as long as possible."

The attack, which has been in full progress from the first light of day yesterday, also was supported strongly by artillery and mortars.

While Clark threw nearly his full strength into the ferocious attack, the Germans were forced to concentrate almost entirely in that area and the British Eighth army

Highway Fatalities Show Decided Drop In Ohio This Year

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, Sept. 24.—Wartime transportation restrictions have reduced motor vehicle fatalities in Ohio from an average of 206.7 a month in 1941, the last pre-war year, to 116.4 a month this year, the Bureau of Vital Statistics reported today.

Between Jan. 1 and Aug. 1, bureau figures showed, 815 persons met death as a result of motor vehicle accidents, compared to 1,834 during all of 1942 and 2,481 in 1941.

Of the 815 fatalities in seven months this year, 118 occurred in accidents involving motor vehicles and trains and 10 in automobile-street car crashes.

The state highway department reported 170 traffic accident deaths to Aug. 1 this year on main highways out of municipalities. In the comparable 1942 period there were 314 fatalities on state highways, against 450 the previous year.

Accident deaths on routes outside cities totaled 35 in July, the heaviest of any month this year.

CSEPKA WILL QUIT HIGHWAY PATROL

State Highway Patrolman Howard Csepke has submitted his resignation to Col. Lynn Black, state patrol head, in Columbus, effective Oct. 1. Csepke, who has been stationed at the Salem barracks for three years, was transferred here from Lima in July, 1940.

When he leaves the department Csepke plans to operate his farm on the Franklin rd. Prior to becoming a patrolman more than four years ago, he was engaged in hard rock mining operations in the west.

RUSSIA HAS WON ITS WAR

Only inability to do two things well at the same time can explain America's present failure to understand the tremendous thing that has happened in Russia. We have been concentrating too much on Italy and neglecting the momentous German retreat on the eastern front.

Russia has won its war and is making Germany pay for defeat. The German army being routed westward never will recover from its staggering losses. Not only has it left manpower and war equipment behind, but prestige. It is defeated in its own mind, just as surely as Napoleon's army was defeated on its "withdrawal" from Russia.

Germany now has reached a condition in Russia from which it can be extricated with less than maximum losses only by an accident of weather. Its desperation is being revealed not only in Russian communications describing sensational advances, but in German communications admitting losses. The entire complexion of the war is being changed by accumulating proof that Russia at last has fought its way out of danger. The Germans are in serious trouble at every point on their long Russian front; at the worst points, they will be lucky to get out alive. At every point, they are getting out the best way they can, at a cost Germany cannot afford to pay at this stage of its second unsuccessful bid for power.

This is the background of every current move in Washington and London. It explains all military and political arrangements—appointment of Gen. Marshall as Allied commander-in-chief, stronger assurances of a conference among representatives of Russia, the United States and Great Britain and preparation of the Anglo-American public for large-scale invasion action at some new point in the near future. Russia has won its war with Germany, except for the mopping-up. The United States and Great Britain are winning their war with Germany, too, but still not decisively enough to claim the victory Russia will be able to claim, unless the fleeing Germans are saved from utter ruin by the weather.

BARBARIANS FROM BEYOND THE ALPS

The misery of Naples and Rome under the whip of Hitler's invaders from the north and the siege of the Allied army trying to drive them back across the Alps is like a misplaced page in history.

Romans and Neapolitans again are at the mercy of enemies who posed as friends. It is usually overlooked that the barbarians who swept down from the north a thousand years ago came first as "tourists" and were received as friends; that they settled themselves on their hosts and took advantage of every opportunity to increase their power. By the time Rome was finally overthrown, the invaders already were on the scene—some of them in the paradoxical role of defenders. Naples suffered then and today. Barbarism hasn't improved any in a thousand years.

Historians beginning to discern the outlines of similarities between current events and the past will not overlook the better planned surge of the enemy from beyond the Alps into the Italian peninsula as one of the great movements of World War II. Except for differences in minor circumstances, it is the same thing that happened in the fifth century.

QUALITY BETTER

Reference in the August report on war production to improved quality recognizes that the quality of weapons produced isn't everything.

Unfortunately, the WPB's monthly reports of production progress, being statistical in nature, cannot measure accurately the cumulative effect of experience—the improvements in airplanes, tanks and guns. It cannot give proper perspective, either, to shifts in production, such as the shift from light to heavy planes. It cannot even make the proper allowance for the well known fact that some lines of production have been slowed up deliberately because they were ahead of schedule.

It is conceivable that a monthly report might be statistically unfavorable, yet military more successful than production in other months that were statistically favorable. On the whole, WPB would be further ahead—and so would the public—if it would make a report taking everything into account. Each month, it should grade war production for that month as excellent, medium, or unsatisfactory. The statistics should be held back for the pleasure of statisticians, who are the only ones who profess to find them satisfactory.

TIME WILL TELL THE STORY

The misgivings stirred by Gen. MacArthur's enigmatic statement about his willingness to serve in any capacity in the Pacific war theater, but at the same time insisting on the rightness of his belief that Japan should be hit hard at key points, are added to misgivings about the reasons for giving Gen. Marshall supreme command of British and American troops throughout the world. However, the misgivings should be held in abeyance.

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill have been confronted with the necessity for making the staff arrangements to insure maximum efficiency in the Anglo-American war effort. They have made these arrangements to the best of their ability—and the arrangements will stand, barring recall by their governments, which is improbable. In other words, there is nothing to be gained by criticism. Its only immediate effect is to impair confidence in an undertaking that cannot be successful without confidence.

Time will tell the story of the revised staff arrangements for prosecuting the war. In every United States war and in World War I, staff arrangements were subject to violent criticism, but all that counted in the last analysis was results. If Gen. Marshall and Gen. MacArthur continue to be members of a winning combination, whatever their titles, misgivings about the titles will cease. Meanwhile, speculation should be tempered by awareness of the fact that the men who know the circumstances of the war best are exercising their best judgment. If results proved they erred, that is the time to unleash criticism.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Skin Aids In Diagnosis

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
THE OLD doctor of our youth used to look at the tongue. This was supposed to give him a sort of general idea of the state of health.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

As to how serious the condition was. As a matter of fact, it didn't teach him much because he didn't know what to look for.

He concentrated on a coated tongue and a coated tongue doesn't mean anything. If he had known the meaning and significance of raw tongue and red tongues, he would have had a clue to a number of the anemias and the vitamin deficiencies. "Raw, red tongue, raw, red gut" is a modern clinical phrase.

The modern physician is much more likely to get his impressions of the patient's general status from looking at and feeling the skin. When an experienced clinician, going through his wards, dictates to his interne about a patient that he "looks sick", you can put that down as one of the most important items in his examination.

Diagnosis From Skin

The sagging of the muscles of the face that denotes Nature's exhaustion, the pallor of heart muscle disease, or the bluish dusky tint of heart failure or shock, the yellow tint of anemia, the thin skin of abnormal weight loss—any of these trained eyes sees and assesses almost subconsciously.

A whole new science has grown up around the skin changes of vitamin deficiency. General changes consist of changes in the color of the skin, an increase in scurfiness of the skin and in poor function of the grease glands of the skin.

One of them at least comes from too much vitamins. We hear so much of people having too little vitamins that we never give a thought to the possibility of getting too much. We are warned pretty regularly not to eat too much protein, cut down on your meat, or cut down on your fat, so why isn't it possible that if we stuff ourselves with vitamins we may get more than the body can take care of.

Cause of Carotenemia
This seems to be the case with the appearance of a yellowish discoloration of the skin known as carotenemia, which comes from eating too much of pigmented vegetables containing carotene, the precursor of vitamin A. In Germany after World War I it was found frequently because of the predominant vegetable diet used by the German people in those years.

Vitamin deficiency, especially vitamin A deficiency, results often in a simple dryness of the skin. This may go over into scurfiness and finally the scaly skin known as ichthyosis. It has been found that many of these cases respond to vitamins A and B.

Still another set of skin conditions apparently due to vitamin deficiency are characterized by a roughness of the skin due to plugs that form in the mouths of the sebaceous glands which normally supply the skin with grease. Lack of vitamin B (yeast, wheat germ) accounts for most of these.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

D. L.:—Who invented gelatin, and what nutritional value has it?
Answer: Papin, a French agriculturalist, in 1861, in order to use as much of the animal as possible, removed jelly from the bones. Cox's Gelatin was introduced into this country in 1845 and sold first through druggists, later being taken up by grocers. Carl Voit, the great physiologist, in 1870, made the first scientific experiments in gelatin showing it spared protein in the diet more than fat or starch.

H. P.:—Who invented ice cream and ice cream freezer?
Answer: This subject is as vague and full of hearsay as the one about who invented bathtubs. Dolly Madison is credited with popularizing ice cream as the ideal American dessert, and Thomas Masters with the invention of the first hand-operated ice cream freezer. But where or when he lived, I have yet to learn.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Deaf Mutes Prove War Work Value

AP Features

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Mute testimony of the U. S. war effort is benefiting from the work of handicapped persons is given at the plant of the Reynolds Research corporation where more than 100 employees, one-fifth of the plant's personnel, are deaf mutes.

They are turning out airtight, water proof powder containers used by the Army and Navy in landing operations.

Representing both sexes, and with a large number of attractive young girls among them, the mutes have flocked to Louisville from places as far away as Florida, Louisiana and New York. They work side by side with unhandicapped employees.

V. W. Moody, vice president in charge of the plant, first turned to mutes as a charitable gesture. But since the first of them came to work, he says, production costs have dropped 22.98 per cent to well below the general level of the industry, and now he is willing to hire as many able-bodied, educated mute men as he can get. Plant officials say the mutes' handicap is partly the reason they are good workers. The fact that they are forced to talk with their hands is said to give them an advantage over normal persons in tasks like assembling and inspecting parts that require speedy fingers.

WILDCAT 13 by TOM GILL

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE

Two nurses were at the door when they drove up, and with Drew's help they carried Spud directly to the operating room, where a moment later Diaz entered. At sight of Gloria's eyes widened, and he made as if to turn away, but she grasped his arm.

"Father," she pointed to the unconscious figure on the table—"we have brought you a man who may be dying. Only you can save him."

Diaz did not answer; he glanced toward the door, where Drew stood watching, and the old look of cold hostility returned. Ignoring his daughter, Diaz walked slowly toward Drew.

"You come to me for help?"

"Yes."

"After all that has passed you think I will help you?"

"Yes."

A thin smile crossed Diaz's face. "You are right." He moved to Spud's side. "Be very thankful I am a physician first, a father second." His fingers passed over Spud's head and raised the faintly quivering eyelids.

"Did he show any weakness of muscular action?" Diaz asked.

Gloria nodded. "Yes. On the right side."

The quiet, unhurried examination went on, and at last Diaz looked gravely up. "I should say this man has a concussion with intracranial hemorrhage, giving compression on the left side of the brain. There is probably also a seepage of blood at the base. His respiration is slow and regular; pulse is good; if there is any change I may have to operate and remove the blood clot. If not, it may dissolve. We can only wait." The impassive face told Drew nothing.

"But will he—"

Diaz raised his hand. "I am a physician, not a prophet. In forty-eight hours we will know."

"Forty-eight hours! He might have said eternity. In an agony of helplessness Drew moved to the window. Forty-eight hours! He felt Gloria's arms on his shoulder.

"Go back to the well, dear," she whispered. "They need you there; here you can't do anything. Send Molly up—we'll nurse Spud day and night; we'll give him every care, and I'll phone you if anything happens. Up here you'd only wear yourself out."

Already they were wheeling Spud down the corridor; dreading Drew watched the door swing closed; then, taking Gloria's face in his hands, he kissed her lips. "Do everything you can, dear—everything."

Mercifully for Thorpe, the work of repairing the damage wrought by fire completely absorbed all his energies for those next two days. The place was a shambles. Debris had to be cleared away, the derrick floor and fourable board repaired, and the lower sections of the derrick strengthened. Scarcely stopping for food, Drew flung himself night and day into the task. His men urged him to sleep, but he only shook his head. It was not sleep he wanted. Sleep brought dreams.

Twice next day Gloria called to tell him Spud was still unconscious, but Diaz had not yet felt it necessary to operate.

"Father and Tono are doing all they can, dear," she told him. "We just have to hope." And in a lower voice she added, "Father still acts as if I'm not here. At dinner he only talks to Nan. Darling, darling, I miss you so!"

Meanwhile, Drew's men were doing their utmost to show their own maritulate sympathy. Hank had taken Spud's shift at the drilling. Thompson was back at the derrick in spite of his burns; and, once the damage done by fire had been repaired, work went on even more swiftly than before.

Then, almost exactly forty-eight hours after the catastrophe Gloria telephoned. Something in her voice warned Drew, but she only said, "Spud's conscious. Father wants you to come up."

Prey to a dozen formless fears, Drew drove the foothills road. One thing alone was certain. It hadn't been necessary for Diaz to operate, and Spud was conscious. Yet—Drew remembered that unmistakable note of distress in Gloria's tone. He drove faster.

At the hospital he went directly to Diaz's office and found the surgeon at his desk. Unsmilingly Diaz waved him to a chair. He seemed even more remote than ever, and for a time sat watching the glowing tip of his cigarette.

"What about Spud?" Drew's voice was sharp with anxiety.

"I will tell you exactly his condition. The blood clot has been absorbed. He is now fully conscious, but—he is blind."

"Blind?"

"Totally blind. That blow on the head has torn both retinas and detached them from the internal wall of the eye."

"Isn't there something—"

Diaz nodded. "Yes, there is one hope. It is of that I want to speak. There is an operation recently developed called the 'sealing operation.' I have never seen it performed, but I understand it has given excellent results."

"Will you try it?"

"That would be impossible. I have neither the equipment nor knowledge of the technique. Only one man performs it—Dr. Marvin, in Boston. And it would have to be performed soon."

"How soon?"

Diaz shrugged. "The sooner the better. Certainly within two months. And it would be a very expensive operation."

Expensive! Suddenly Thorpe realized he hadn't enough money to send Spud to Boston; then vaguely he heard Diaz say, "I have done all I can. No one could help him now but Marvin."

Marvin! Marvin and money. With a man's eye-sight at stake, it ought to be possible to raise cash somehow, somewhere. But even Spud's insurance money was gone. The equipment had been borrowed on up to the hilt, and the funds still in the bank to pay the drillers—he couldn't even touch that. Closed doors everywhere. He felt Diaz's eyes on him, and dully he saw that he was twisting his hat between his hands.

Ray Cutter? There was no possible way for Cutter to lend him money.

"Would I need a great deal?" he heard himself asking.

"Marvin is an expensive surgeon," Diaz answered.

What did it matter—five hundred dollars or five thousand? He was as far from one as the other.

He raised tortured eyes to the man behind the desk. "Is Franz Alter here?"

"I think so," Diaz sent a nurse up to the laboratory.

The ticking of the clock seemed louder; while, stooped in his chair like a man in pain, Drew looked out the window upon a world that Spud would never see again unless—Marvin and money—the words began whirling through his consciousness like a taunting refrain until the door opened, and Alter entered. His quick eyes took in Drew's bent figure, then he looked toward Diaz.

"You called me?"

With his cigarette holder the surgeon pointed toward Drew. "Senior Thorpe asked to see you." Diaz rose. "I shall not intrude."

The door closed on Diaz, and Drew turned toward Alter. "Spud Lowry is blind."

"Yes, I know. I am sorry."

"I need money to send him to Boston for an operation—at once. You can have my share in the Rio Bravo well for five thousand dollars."

Alter laughed outright. "Five thousand dollars for a wildcat well in a condemned field! Don't joke with me, Mr. Thorpe."

"You once offered to back me in it—that would have cost you twenty times what I'm asking now."

Alter raised his hands in mock surprise. "So you would actually sell out to me—the menace of your beloved Americas? What has happened to all your high-sounding patriotic motives? I seem to remember much fine oratory about saving the Rio Bravo field for the democratic way of life."

Too worn, too desperately in need even to resent that jeering tone, Drew answered. "Alter, there's a man lying blind in this hospital who means more to me than any man on earth. I have a chance to bring back his sight, but only money can do it, and I haven't got that money. That's why I'm offering you all my interest in the well."

"I see." In his pocket, Alter jingled a handful of coins. "All that is very touching, but I am not interested."

Drew made one last attempt. "You wanted me to work for you once. Well, I'll work for you. I'll give you value received. All I ask is the money to send Spud up to the States and get him through that operation."

Alter went on jingling his coins, and Drew could not be sure whether he was turning the proposal over in his mind or simply prolonging the enjoyment of Drew's capitulation.

But the smile had vanished when next Alter spoke. "You couldn't work for me now, Thorpe. I wouldn't have you. Once you told me we stood for two different ways of life, and you were right. I stand for the strong! I am part of a destiny that today is sweeping the world. We bring something new to the peoples of the earth, and we bring it with a sword. This vision I hoped once to teach to you, but I was wrong. Your fate is to be blotted out, for in the world I am helping create there is room only for the ruthless and the strong."

"As for your well, I would be a fool to buy it. If ever it comes in, I'll take it from you at my own price. But I don't believe it will ever come in. Good morning."

Alter's shoulders jerked forward in that military bow, and the door closed behind him.

Aimlessly Drew walked to the window. Never in all his life before had he felt so trapped, so helpless. In the very moment when he needed money beyond anything else, he couldn't raise a dollar. The sight of the brilliant sun-drenched world outside was like a reproach. Throwing himself into a chair, he covered his eyes with his hands.

So for a time he sat, without movement, without thought, bruised and beaten, until a quick footstep sounded behind him, and Gloria was kneeling at his side. She did not speak; she laid her cheek on his in a gesture of sympathy and understanding beyond the reach of words. Blindly his arms swept about her, and like two stricken children they held each other while hot tears stung their eyes.

War Improves British Cooks: No Longer Boil Away Flavor

BY DUDLEY ANN HARMON
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON — It took the war to make cooks of the British, and according to an American woman who came here with one assignment—to eat—they are finally learning and almost have stopped boiling the flavor and vitamins out of vegetables.

Miss Annette Snapper of Milwaukee, Wis., who has eaten her way through workmen's restaurants, luxury hotels, Red Cross centers and middle-class restaurants in 18 small towns and cities, here to report to America's hotels and restaurants on her return, said today that Lord Woolton, the minister of food, taught the British housewife how to cook and conserve.

"I've had grand meals in cheap restaurants here. They have far less to make them with than Americans do and are doing a better job with what they have," Miss Snapper said.

Miss Snapper, who describes herself as "the eyes and ears of the restaurant world," said she believed that food administration in the United States should be under a food czar like Lord Woolton and added "our problem would be easier if rationing, prices and distribution were centered in a single organization as here."

Waiters Can't Snap
"The British have done a wonderful job," she said. "I met one hotelkeeper who served meals all through the blitz and whose hotel is understaffed. He forbids his waiters to turn on guests and snap. 'Don't you know there's a war on.'"

Visiting hotels taken over for refugees from Gibraltar and for Polish exiles and evacuees from Malta, Miss Snapper said she was impressed by the number of mouths served in British hotels. "If Americans could see how their food keeps such people alive, they would stop grumbling," she said.

She pointed out, too, that food from the United States supplies American soldiers and the Red Cross which, in Britain, operates in the largest chain of hotels in the world.

Miss Snapper said that when she returns to the United States she will tell Washington officials that the British rationing system for hotels is better. Luxury hotels, she said, are allowed to charge a cover, though meals must be a standard price of one dollar.

"In Washington they're trying to level first-class hotels more costly in service down to the cheaper ones which are no so expensive to run," she said.

Worker Answers Query. Prober Learns Nothing
KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Workers at a nearby war project were talking too much off the job, which had secret implications. Probers felt around among the workers to see who was talking and who wasn't. The investigator eased up to an old man sawing boards.

"What are you making?" he asked the laborer.

"Makin' $1.25 an hour," came the answer, the sawing never ceasing.

NOW, as America goes all out for the INVASION—your dollars must join the fight, too! For the very least you can do for your country—and for your loved ones doing the fighting—is to invest in MORE War Bonds in September.

Think of Jim fighting with Eisenhower... or Bill with MacArthur in the Solomons... or Bob up in Kiska. They've given their pledge to fight—and die if need be—for their country. They're ready to go all the way.

And we at home must see them through all the way, too! That means every individual in the country who earns a wage or draws an income or has accumulated funds must invest in at least one EXTRA $100 War Bond if he can possibly do so. Those who can, must invest more. This in addition to your regular War Bond subscription.

Yes, the least you can do for your men in service is to do MORE in September. MORE in the safe securities in the world—U. S. Government War Bonds. But do it now—it's for the INVASION!

Mrs. Josephine Himmelsbach and daughter, Aileen, of E. Pershing st., have returned home after spending a week with her son, Pfc. Raymond Himmelsbach and his wife, Jane, at Richmond, Va. He is stationed there with the Engineers Corps at an Army air base.

Mrs. William Kircher of Dayton, formerly of Salem, is visiting friends and relatives here.

MARCH ON NAPLES

in the south was able to advance swiftly and almost at will.

The German communiqué broadcast from Berlin said strong forces had attacked at Salerno and turned to the southeast. It declared the Contursi attack was repelled but admitted that the attack still was in progress in the Salerno area.

Hit Ammunition Ship

The daring motorboat foray to the Albanian shore marked an Allied move in a new direction against the German forces in southeastern and southern Europe.

A naval announcement said the larger of the two vessels sunk was laden with ammunition. Shore batteries opened fire, causing some damage to one vessel, but it returned to base without casualties, the announcement said.

The naval announcement said Allied vessels still are pouring reinforcements into the Salerno area and added that the Eighth army is being supplied across the Straits of Messina.

Allied bombers last night rained into northern Italy to Pisa and attacked the railway yards and airfield, the air command announced.

Allied aircraft still was striking heavily at enemy troop movements and concentrations back of the Salerno battle area. Medium bombers hit at roads and road junctions around Anello and in the area of Capua.

Fighters and fighter bombers patrolled the Avellino and Benevento areas, smashing at motor transports, gun positions and bridges.

Strike In New Direction

The opening of the Adriatic to Allied naval forces was vividly pointed up by the foray into Valona harbor across the straits from the Italian heel. This was the first time Allied naval forces had struck in Albania and Yugoslavia in 1941 when Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham's cruisers and destroyers made daring dashes into the straits. The bold radio coincided with the campaign of Allied forces in the Middle East who have seized Sams and two islands in the Dodecanese.

The communiqué said two other enemy vessels were hit beside the two sunk.

The air force said the German evacuation of Corsica island and birthplace of Napoleon which is slightly over 100 miles south of the French coast, was going on day and night.

This was the third time since May that the Germans were on the run by air and sea. The first time was from Tunisia and the second, from Sicily. In all cases their air transport losses were heavy.

It was disclosed, meanwhile, that two French cruisers, including the Jeanne D'Arc which formerly was based at Martinique in the West Indies, six destroyers and three submarines had assisted in taking French forces to the island to chase out the Germans.

Union Fight In Court

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The United States Gypsum Co. asks the federal court here to declare that neither the President nor the War Labor board has power to require union attendance as an employment requirement, specifically at its Warren, O., plant.

The company also requested in a U. S. district court suit that the Director of Economic Stabilization be enjoined from compelling the Warren plant to comply with a WLB order of May 30 directing union maintenance and checkoff in a collective bargaining agreement. About 150 employees are involved.

COUNTY HOME NURSE FIRED FOR CRUELTY

Sgt. G. G. Clupper of the Mahoning County home at Canfield notified the Ohio Civil Service commission today that he had dismissed Vera Dutcher as a nurse at the home, effective Sept. 20, for "inefficiency, neglect of duty, insubordination and cruelty to inmates."

In a letter to the nurse, a copy of which was forwarded to the commission, Clupper charged that on Sept. 11, she sprayed insecticide in an inmate's face and eyes "because she was hollering and making a noise."

"On other occasions," he added, "you have been known to spray this disinfectant on the faces and body of other patients."

"And on numerous occasions you have failed to obey the doctor's orders and have given more and different medicines than he had prescribed."

Clupper, who listed 14 charges, further accused the nurse of leaving an inmate she was bathing in charge of a feeble-minded resident of the home who "turned on the hot water and scalded her foot severely."

Asphalt Primer Applied To New Rte. 30 Concrete

LISBON, Sept. 24.—Application of a light asphalt primer to the new concrete section of the Lincoln highway, southeast of Lisbon, was begun today, State Highway Resident Engineer George Gonzales said.

The protective sealing is applied to prevent deterioration of the concrete from the chemicals used in winter on the roadway to dissolve snow and ice.

Ohio Bell Veteran Honored At Party

A dinner was held last evening at the Lape hotel in honor of Dallas W. Bryan, desk man at the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., who is retiring Sept. 30 after 34 years of service with the Ohio Bell. Mr. Bryan has been in communications work 44 years, having spent 10 years with an independent telephone company.

Fifty employees of the plant, traffic and communications departments enjoyed group singing and dancing following the dinner. A gift was presented to the honoree from the employees by Harry Bush.

Ray C. Stiver acted as toastmaster and responses were given by Fred Von Thaler, Nora Fink and Carl Willman.

Among those present were Miss Pearl Butz, former chief operator of Uhrichsville, Mrs. Ida Schopf, traffic supervisor of Akron, Pfc. Howard Dunbar, former member of Columbiana construction crew and Miss Laura Senten of Salem, retired Columbiana chief operator.

News and Views, Briefly On What's Going On In Capital

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The federal payroll drew the attention today of congressmen striving to keep fathers out of uniform.

Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the house military committee, an opponent of the father draft, called upon Major General Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, to explain next week an estimated 300,000 non-fathers of draft age on the government payroll. Rep. Costello (D-Calif.), a colleague, said half this number should be in the armed forces and Rep. Harness (R-Ind.) asserted "this lost army" should meet the military's needs without requiring induction of family heads.

Opponents Giving In
In both the senate and house, legislators apparently had abandoned their fight to outlaw father draft. An unofficial poll in the senate showed less than 20 certain votes for the Wheeler bill to block the draft until Jan. 1, 1944. Sentiment for it faded in the face of testimony by military men that they needed more manpower, backed up by the word of presidential adviser Bernard M. Baruch.

Congress meantime gave some thought to the votes of the men already in uniform. Steps were taken on legislation allowing the service men and women to vote next year by using a simplified V-mail ballot. The secretaries of war and navy were asked to give the senate election committee their views on the idea.

On the house side of the Capitol, a challenge of the President came from an appropriations subcommittee. Chairman Kerr (D-SC) whose group recommended dismissal of three federal employees whose philosophies had been questioned by the Dies committee, said meetings would be resumed to continue this sort of investigating work. President Roosevelt's declarations that the house exceeded its authority by such dismissals was described by Kerr as "nonsense" and "absurd." Any other employees whose Americanism is challenged will be put through the same screen with the same ultimate penalty, it was indicated.

Diplomatic circles were interested in a State department invitation for 43 Allied and associated nations to convene at the White House in November for action on a plan dividing the world's relief problems equally. The part would dispel any idea that the United States was preparing to feed all hungry nations at American expense alone.

12 ARMY RECRUITS LEAVE FOR CAMP

Thirteen Salem army inductees left by train yesterday afternoon for Fort Hayes, Columbus to receive camp assignments. Dale R. Thomas was acting corporal.

The men, together with 10 Navy recruits, were inducted at Akron Sept. 2. The Navy men already are in training.

Cigarettes and candy were distributed at the railroad station by the Salem Booster club.

Hadn't Heard of Draft

AKRON, Sept. 24.—A husky, 23-year-old native of West Virginia who said he did not know of the requirement to register for selective service was in the Summit county jail today. Deputy Sheriff Sam Keene quoted him as saying he had been working on a farm near Huntington, W. Va., and didn't know anything about the draft. He said he drifted into Akron because he "got tired of cutting corn." Keene said the young man couldn't read or write.

Taft Hits Dreaming

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Sen. Robert A. Taft says talk of carrying the four freedoms into all parts of the world is "talking in a dream language." The Ohio Republican told a radio audience during the Town Hall program last night: "If we can crusade for the four freedoms, Russia can crusade for Communism." The senator also expressed opposition to a British-American-Russian post-war military alliance.

Next Shoe Stamp To Last 6 Months

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Take it easy with the Brogans, boys, it's going to be a longer time between pairs.

Six months was the period set by the Office of Price Administration last night for stretching the next new-shot ration stamp, which becomes valid Nov. 1. The OPA said the new stamp might have to last until May 1.

Heretofore, it's been four months between coupons.

Principal cause, OPA explained, is a critical shortage of leather due to heavy demands for military and industrial uses and for shoe repairing.

In naming a stamp No. 1 on the "airplane" sheet of ration book three as the coupon for the next period, OPA also announced that the expiration date of stamp 18 in book one has been extended indefinitely beyond Oct. 31. Its use will wrap up the new stamp which likewise has no expiration date.

Columbiana Church Rally Attracts 150

COLUMBIANA, Sept. 24.—One hundred and fifty women of the Mahoning Presbyterial attended the annual fall district meeting held at the local church Thursday, M. S. C. B. Riggie presided.

The program opened with a worship service and prayer for missionaries by Mrs. Gerrit Labatz, Presbyterial president. The mission study was presented by Mrs. Norman Moore, secretary for missionary education. Missionary address, Mrs. Mason Vaughn of India.

Address, "Maintaining the Ideals of Our Christian Homes," Rev. J. B. Barker, pastor. Mrs. J. K. McDuffie, at noon, a luncheon was served in the church dining room by circle 2 of the local church.

Organ music presented by Mrs. R. J. Barrow, prayer, M. S. C. W. Smith; message from the Presbyterial president, Mrs. Labatz; reports of committee Roll call, solo by Arlene Riggie, Rev. J. Morgan Cox of Lisbon spoke on, "The Youth Budget Plan," after which Mrs. Vaughn addressed the group again. Mrs. Ralph Irons is the president of the local church organization.

Wife of President Homeward Bound

(By Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was heading eastward today to report to headquarters—her husband—what she learned in her 24,000-mile, 38-day journey to Australia and the South Pacific.

"The President said, 'will you try to see as many of the men as you can, and find out how things are going,' she told interviewers yesterday after arriving by plane from Honolulu. 'I don't think I ever worked so hard in my life.'"

The journey took her to 17 islands, in addition to Australia and New Zealand, and included Guadalcanal, which had been bombed the night before and had an alert the night she was there. She flew 23,145 air miles in 107 hours, 45 minutes.

And American fighting men? "The ones who hadn't finished their college wanted to know if they would have a chance to go on with their education; the ones who had acquired skills in the service were hopeful they could find a way to use them after the war. They all wanted to know whether they would have jobs. They took a tremendous interest in the kind of world we are going to have after the peace."

The War Today By DeWitt MacKenzie

until invasion of the Reich is imminent. Then one would expect them to rush for the best peace terms possible in an effort to avert fighting on home soil.

So far as the Prussian militarists are concerned they wouldn't hesitate to sacrifice Hitler if it would save their own skins. Their trouble is that the Allies have decreed their elimination along with Hitler and his ism. Therefore they too must battle and try to find an avenue of escape.

Can the German people take it? They will stand plenty until they realize there's no hope. Then the cord may snap.

G. A. R. Completes Plans For 1944 Encampment

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 24.—Come peace or continued war, the Grand Army of the Republic will meet again.

Rejecting a proposal to discontinue their annual encampments for the duration of this war, the veterans of the Civil war, today chose Des Moines, Ia., for their 78th meeting next year.

Selected to lead them at that convention was George H. Jones, 94, of Oxford, Me., named commander-in-chief by his fellow veterans by unanimous vote today.

Thirty-five veterans, ranging in age from 92 to 106 attended the 77th annual encampment.

Improvements On Ohio River After War Are Planned

(By Associated Press)
CINCINNATI, Sept. 24.—The Ohio river, one of the nation's historic pathways of commerce and expansion, may get a gradual but extensive resurfacing and at least three more feet of water in its channel in the decade after the war.

River men the length of the 931-mile stream are discussing a proposal to include in any post-war public works program replacement of many of the 46 locks and dams now maintaining a nine-foot channel. The ultimate goal would be a canalized stream with about half that many dams, all bigger and in locations demonstrated by experience to be more suitable.

In addition, the advisability of a deeper channel, at least 12 feet and possibly even 20 feet in some stretches, is being studied. The house rivers and harbors committee asked the army engineers Sept. 17 to determine the feasibility and cost of the 12-foot project.

Men familiar with the dam proposal, which so far is strictly unofficial, explain that although the present project was completed only in 1929, many of the dams are 40 to 50 years old. They must be replaced some day and the river men say, should be replaced when necessary by some plan considering the river as a whole instead of just the section immediately affected by any dam in question.

Urges Review of Project
Resolutions for presentation to the house rivers and harbors committee and the senate commerce committee have been prepared by organizations interested in development of the Ohio valley. They urge complete review of the project of 1902 under which the Ohio was brought to its present state.

River men support the idea with a contention that the present locks frequently are unable to handle without some delay the terrific burden of traffic now moving.

War shipments have pushed the annual tonnage figures far above the 29,549,275 of 1940, the last year for which totals were published. The 1942 tonnage was reported unofficially at an unprecedented 38,000,000-plus, or more than six times the peak of the first World war, 6,171,412 in 1918.

Often five or six tows of 10 to 20 barges each are delayed at a lock, awaiting their turns to go through. The river stage is high enough now to permit the barges to pass in the locks and thus eliminate the necessity for locking, but during the summer months traffic is held up.

Ultimate halving of the number of dams would reduce the possibility of this delay as well as cut the number of times a tow would have to stop for locking, river men said. In addition, they said, better navigation of new dams in straight stretches would eliminate hazardous currents and blind approaches now hampering tows at some dams.

Mexican Officials Here To Inspect Ohio Roads

COLUMBUS, Sept. 24.—Two highway experts representing the republic of Mexico arrived today to make an extended study of Ohio's highway department. They are Francisco Rodriguez Cabo, Mexico's assistant chief engineer of highway maintenance, and Jose Eliseague Martinez, assistant chief engineer of the materials department.

"Our government sent us to Ohio because your state has one of the finest highway departments in America," said Cabo. "We have come primarily to study construction and maintenance methods, but we are also interested in the work of your testing laboratory and traffic control."

Hello Moscow!

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Direct telephone service has been established between New York and Moscow.

This became known today with the filing of a tariff with the Federal Communications Commission by the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The cost of a call between New York and Moscow is on the basis of $21 for three minutes. This service, like all other overseas communications, will be subject to censorship.

Accused As Spy, Faints In Court

Appearing before Federal Judge Edward J. Moinet in Detroit on charges of espionage, Mrs. Theresa Behrens, 44-year-old former social worker who has been on a hunger strike since her arrest on spy charges, stood mute as a plea of not guilty was entered for her and then fainted when the judge set bond of $25,000. Mrs. Behrens was nabbed in a spy roundup several weeks ago along with several others including the Countess Marianna Von Moltke, wife of a suspended Wayne university professor. (International).

New Regulations Affect Chattel Mortgage Filing

LISBON, Sept. 24.—County Recorder Richard O. Wilson announced today that the new laws relative to filing of chattel mortgages, which becomes effective Sept. 28, fixes a blanket charge of 30-cents for the filing of each instrument regardless of the number of signatures.

The present rate is 12 cents for filing of each instrument, plus six cents for each signature, of which there may be two or more, Wilson stated.

The revised statute also lists: "for attaching to any filed instrument after the filing thereof any sworn statement, credit, assignment or any other document, 25 cents; and like fees for certified copies of any instrument or copies for services not herein provided for, as are allowed by law to recorders."

Also within 30 days preceding expiration of a three year period, the mortgage shall be deposited with the recorder for refiling, and if this is not done six years after the time for refiling chattel mortgage has expired, the recorder may destroy such mortgage under the new law.

Animal Rabies Claims In County On Increase

LISBON, Sept. 24.—Rabies treatments and animal claims in Columbiana county have shown a decided increase over last year, according to a report compiled by Commissioner's Clerk Lester W. Sexton.

During the first eight months of this year 34 persons received treatment after being bitten by dogs suffering with rabies, at a cost to county of $935.15, as compared to 27 persons in 1942 when the Pasteur treatments cost $658.13.

There have been 19 animal claims filed this year for which the amount of $1,787.48 was paid to the owners of stock attacked by rabid dogs, while but $1,296.60 was paid on 30 claims last year the report show.

Prepared cans, scrap iron, magazines and newspapers will be collected on Monday and Tuesday evening. It was requested that all newspapers be tied up.

Eleven tables were in play at the card party given by the Pythian Sisters on Tuesday evening. Bridge prizes were awarded to Adeline McClain of Canfield and Fred Putnam of Greenford; "500" prizes to Mrs. John Miller of Columbiana and E. L. Girard; euchre prizes to Mrs. Russell Smith and Charles Mollie. Another party will be held in two weeks.

Home From Hospital
Mrs. Carl Weikart was able to be brought home from the Central Clinic hospital in Salem on Tuesday.

John R. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Smith, left for the armed service on Thursday.

Officers of Pride of the Valley temple, Pythian Sisters, will entertain the members at a social hour following the meeting on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Reese have moved to Youngstown. William Tetlow and family will move into the house vacated.

Boost In National Debt Limit Foreseen by Solon

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Congress may be asked soon to boost the national debt limit to $300,000,000.

Chairman Cannon (D-Mo.) of the house appropriations committee told reporters today the present rate of government spending is approaching the present statutory limit of $210,000,000.

He estimated the present spending rate at between $7,000,000,000 and $8,000,000,000 monthly.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"I was just tellin' my brother Fred this morning, Judge...there's never been a time in our lives when we got to live up to that old sayin' 'United we stand, divided we fall' more than we have to today."

"How true that is, Herb. And for the life of me, I can't figure out why, at a time like this, some folks insist on raising a question like prohibition. I can't imagine anything that would tickle our enemies more than to get us folks over here taking sides against each other, arguing about an issue like that. We've got a he-man's job on our hands to win this war and we can't be wasting our minds, our money and our strength fighting about something we tried for nearly 14 years and found couldn't work.

"I say there's a time and a place for everything, and this is no time or place to be doing any fightin' except the kind that's going to win the war."

Theatre

Action and thrills follow fast on the heels of Joan Crawford and Fred MacMurray as they combine a honeymoon with a "spy hunt" in "Above Suspicion," playing at the State tonight and Saturday. Miss Crawford and MacMurray are honeymooners who are asked by the British Intelligence to discover the whereabouts of a missing British agent while in Germany, since they will be typical tourists, and consequently, above suspicion.

They lead the Nazis a merry chase all over the continent and accomplish their mission, finally escaping into neutral Switzerland, laced in the background of pre-war Paris and southern Germany, the film exposes the extent of Nazi espionage being practiced even then, and shows what the British did to counteract its influence.

A double feature, "Queen of Broadway" and "Raiders of San Joaquin," is scheduled at the Grand tonight and Saturday.

Marines Saw "Circus"

RENOVA ISLAND—U. S. Marines on this newly won Pacific base, just off Munda, have had a spectacular, albeit uncomfortable three-day circus to watch. While Jap bombers were hammering at this island, and fighter planes were tangling in dogfights above, American bombers were diving on Munda, six miles away. Marines daring to poke their heads from foxholes could see all three actions going on at once.

London Expensive Place to Live Even For Army Officers

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Sept. 24.—Desk and staff officers here who operate the great headquarters of the American drive in the European theater have budget troubles as sharp as those of any American housewife back home.

Through no one fault, but by the impact of an immense effort drawn here from around the world, this city—staid and gracious old London—has to its own astonishment taken on some of the difficulties of an oil boom town.

Living, despite the long and mainly successful British effort to keep prices from getting out of hand, is tremendously expensive. Officers don't talk much about it, but the fact is that from major on down they have to exercise a degree of thrift which they doubt is equalled by that of American officers anywhere else.

It is true that the post exchanges have low prices on what they sell—for example, American cigarettes at 10 cents a package. But the limit on cigarettes is seven packs a week. A fairly heavy smoker accustomed to handling them around the circle has got to piece this ration out with British cigarettes.

Smokes Are Expensive
Popular British cigarettes cost about 10 cents. Eating outside the officers' mess is a highly expensive business. Dinner for one in an acceptable place for one pound—the current equivalent of $4.04—is considered not at all unreasonable and to this must be added a tip which by British custom runs to about two shillings, or 40 cents, for each person served. This is of course exclusive of anything like a cocktail or wine—which really run high.

By British regulation there is five shilling or one dollar, legal limit on the price of a meal but this does not mean much in the face of extra charges for coffee, salad, "service" and so forth.

Prices for items which the government deems not essential and thus not covered by any legal price ceiling—climb to rather astonishing altitudes. For example, one might be asked $4.20 for a single cantelope, or more than a dollar for a single peach.

Dig Deep Into Pay
Suitable quarters for an officer living alone can hardly be found for less than $5 a day; an officer sharing an apartment with other officers can manage on about $3 a day, but not much less.

Mild entertainment requires much shelling out. A single seat in an ordinary first-run movie will run up to $2.50.

Against all those facts are these: A major's living allowance is $6 a day. It is $5 for captain, and so on down.

Officers say that nearly all of them must dig deeply into their pay—which is modest, running to about $265 a month in the case of a second lieutenant maintaining a wife and home in America—to live on even the minimum scale.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Ritchie spent several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mohr at Alliance recently, visiting with their son, Pvt. Arthur (Ike) Ritchie of Fort Meade, S. D., and his wife and baby girl of Chicago.

Pfc. Arthur Antram of Camp Stewart, Georgia, is spending a short furlough at the home of his mother, Mrs. Clara Antram. On Sunday he, his mother and Mrs. Walter Antram and little son were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Porter of Willoughby and on Wednesday visited relatives at Beaver Falls, Pa.

Lutherans To Meet Here
The Canton-Youngstown Federation of Lutheran Leagues will meet at the Lutheran church here on Sunday afternoon and evening. Rev. G. D. Keister will speak at the vespers service at 7 p. m.

Staff Sgt. Wendell Berger and Mrs. Berger of San Bernardino, Calif., are spending a furlough with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Berger and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Barges. Sgt. Berger, who has been stationed at an embarkation port at San Bernardino, has received orders since home, to report at the embarkation port at Boston.

The monthly social and business meeting of the Lutheran leagues was held at the home of Miss Theda Barnett on Monday evening.

Celebrates 100th Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barnett and two sons, Frank and David, were at Wooster recently to attend a reception held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Livingstone, honoring the 100th birthday anniversary of S. W. Livingstone, grandfather of Mrs. Barnett. A large number of relatives and friends called during the day and evening and Mr. Livingstone received more than 100 greetings.

Mrs. Freda Snyder and Mrs. Ruth Papa of Erie, Pa., were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Barges.

Miss Edna Griffith of Garfield was a guest Sunday of Miss Jane Berger.

Harvest Home Service
Mrs. Lena Demmell, Mrs. Margaret Seallott and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Demmell of Alliance attended the special services at the Lutheran church on Sunday and the dinner which followed.

Seventy-two members and their pastor, Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Frank, enjoyed the dinner and fellowship hour which followed the Rally day and Harvest Home services. A generous offering of canned fruit and vegetables were brought for Oesterlin orphans home at Springfield.

Gideon Society Official Is Tabernacle Speaker

John W. Lamey of Alliance, secretary of the Christian Commercial Men's association, known as the Gideons, will speak Sunday evening at the Lighthouse tabernacle, W. State st.

Lamey, a Christian layman, is employed in the personnel department of the Taylorcraft Aviation Corp.

Rev. M. R. Searles, pastor of the Tabernacle, said the speaker will give his life history, telling how God saved him from drinking, gambling and a ruined life, although it took the death of his little daughter to bring it about. He has spoken in 31 different churches this year. The public is invited.

Pink Elephants In Liquor Are Chased Away by Vitamins

BY H. W. BLAKESLEE

AP Science Editor
NEW YORK—Some of the pink elephants can be chased out of alcohol by placing vitamins in the liquor.

It is illegal under present government regulations to add vitamins to alcoholic beverages. That, however, does not apply to the enthusiast who wants to add some vitamins to his own mixed drink.

There has been a dearth of information about vitamins in liquor. Not about whether good whiskey possessed natural vitamins, which it apparently doesn't, but whether vitamins slipped into drinks would be cooked, or whatever method of destruction liquor is supposed to possess.

The Journal of the American Medical association reports that A. F. Novak and S. L. Adams placed three vitamins in bottles filled with a standard brand, 86.3 proof whiskey. Some of the bottles were clear glass, exposed to daylight, some amber, and some kept in the dark.

The vitamins were B-1 for nerves, riboflavin or B-2 for skin troubles, and nicotinic acid, which is niacin or B-3, for pellagra. At the end of two months the B-2 was fifty per cent destroyed, whether in daylight or darkness. But at the end of six months there was no sign of loss of the other two vitamins.

Many diseases associated with chronic alcoholism are primarily due to vitamin lack rather than to drink. Lack of B-1 causes peripheral neuritis, which has many painful or annoying symptoms, including, sometimes, the pink elephants.

Don't Forget Japs, Knox Tells British

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox asked the British press today to educate the English public "to the necessity of fighting this Japanese war."

"Nothing would disturb the growing American confidence in British cooperation than to believe the British feel that when Hitler is disposed of it all will be over," he told a press conference.

Asked if Prime Minister Churchill's recent statement had not dis-

CHARDON STUDENTS HARVESTING CROPS

CHARDON, Sept. 24.—Chardon High school's entire student body stayed away from classes this week to engage in a mass farm harvesting effort—with faculty approval.

All of the 200 students were absent four days this week and will remain out today and four days next week to help harvest crops and perform other early autumn chores.

"This is a remarkable contribution to the food front in this war and the school has set an example that may well be followed over Ohio," said Ford Quigley, emergency farm labor official from Geauga and Lake counties.

Crediting Schools Superintendent George Talbot and his faculty with providing extra farm hands from the high school, Quigley said food is being saved from waste in orchards and farms.

Norman Sorensen, manager of one orchard, said "girls are doing as well as boys and all have attended strictly to the job."

The students promised to put half their earnings into War bonds, he added.

DEATHS

JOHN A. HARVEY

EAST PALESTINE, Sept. 24. — John A. Harvey, 64, was found dead Thursday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Helen Lumley here. Death is believed to have been due to a heart attack.

A lifelong resident of East Palestine, Mr. Harvey, a potter employed by the W. S. George Co., was the son of Robert and Martha Harvey. He was born here Nov. 2, 1878.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Lumley, at whose home he died, and Mrs. Lewis Foster of this city, and sons, Robert of East Palestine and Donald Harvey of Salem; and two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Beck of Alliance and Mrs. Jessie Buxton of Bellefontaine.

Funeral service will be held at the Oliver funeral home at 2 p. m. Saturday. Burial will be here.

REDS REACH RIVER

Trubaitsky, 15 miles from Cherkass, was occupied in the Poltava advance, the Moscow communique said. A plunge across the river at this point would imperil huge Axis forces inside the bend and on the east side of the river, increase the threat to Kiev and place Russian forces in a position to isolate German positions in the Crimea.

More than 5,300 Germans were killed in the day's fighting, the Moscow war bulletin stated, and 863 more liberated towns and villages were added to the Russian bag.

Operations in the Smolensk area resulted in the storming of Buzarov, nine miles to the northeast, and Pochinok, 19 miles to the southeast. Seizure of Pochinok cut the railway to Roslavl, where the Berlin radio said Soviet and German troops were fighting in the streets.

SENTENCES YOUTH TO DIE IN CHAIR

(By Associated Press) CELINA, Sept. 24.—Seventeen-year-old Louis Vernon Hand, standing erect and grinning broadly, was condemned to death in the electric chair by Common Pleas Judge Raymond Younger today. Convicted last week for the hammer slaying of Richard Stober, six, last July 3, Hand was sentenced to be electrocuted in Ohio penitentiary Jan. 14.

Judge Younger, visibly shaken, asked the boy whether he had anything to say.

"I have not," the boy replied. Those were his first words since he entered court early last week to stand trial on a first degree murder charge.

He smiled broadly as Judge Younger pronounced sentence, and then, grinning at the packed courtroom, was led back to jail, the first person ever sentenced to death in Mercer county. He will be taken to the penitentiary at Columbus Monday.

Liquor Store Hours In State to Change Oct. 1

Ohio retail liquor store hours will be changed effective Oct. 1 from the present 1 p. m. to 9 p. m. schedule to 11 a. m. to 7 p. m. local time. Liquor Director Don Fisher announced today.

Fisher cited three reasons for the change:

To permit purchases during the midday lunch hour, thus relieving the present evening buying crush; to enable war plant workers on the 12 noon-8 p. m. shift to make purchases between 11 a. m. and noon; and third to give retail liquor store employees their evening hours at home.

Refused "E" Pennant

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24.—President James F. Lincoln of the Lincoln Electric Co. reported he refused to accept an Army-Navy E pennant for war production in June, 1942, because the house naval affairs committee "had called me all kinds of a crook" during an investigation of the firm's bonus system.

Open War Work Office

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24.—Opening a permanent regional office here to receive an investigate complaints of discriminatory employment practices in war industries was announced by the President's committee on fair employment practice.

Surprise Is Staged By Knights Templar

DAMASCUS, Sept. 24—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wernet were given a surprise house warming Tuesday evening by 35 members of Salem Commandery, Knights Templar, and members of the auxiliary from Salem, East Palestine, Columbiana and Damascus.

Games were enjoyed and lunch was served. Mary Louise Lozier and Donna Lou Lower assisted in serving.

Mr. and Mrs. Wernet recently moved here from the Damascus-Westville road.

Party Honors Pair

Members of the family of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Stanley were entertained Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stanley. The event honored the birthday of their daughter, Mrs. William McCrea of Pittsburgh and also honored Lynn Shreve, who is entering Asbury college at Wilmore, Ky. Mrs. McCrea was presented a handkerchief shower.

A coverdish dinner was served at noon.

At Canton Rally

A group of ladies of the Methodist church attended the annual North East Ohio Women's Society of Christian Service meeting at Canton Thursday. They were Mrs. Alton Bye, delegate and Mrs. L. J. Mountz, Mrs. B. E. Cameron, Mrs. Charles Pyle, Mrs. H. E. Stout and Mrs. W. J. West.

The Carlin property, formerly the Bashaw place has been sold to Fred Baker of Guilford lake.

Clark Eberle of Wooster, former teacher of music in the schools here, was inducted in the service Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Knight have bought the property of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Benson occupied by Ed Kerns.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bayles attended a dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Myers of East Goshen Saturday evening, when members of the Nimble Thimble club and families were entertained.

Rev. A. N. Henry and son and Mrs. Erba Maddox were dinner guests of Rev. and Mrs. Kenneth Carey and son of East Goshen Tuesday.

Services For Blind Are Made Available by State

LISBON, Sept. 24—Several services for the blind have been made available through the Ohio Commission for the Blind in Columbus. Miss Mary Burneson, county blind aid investigator, announced today.

These include the use free of charge of a talking book, either electric or battery type, with records also furnished by the commission. The best in literature, both fiction and non-fiction, are obtainable. Miss Burneson stated.

There is also the "home teacher" sent out by the blind commission, who, although totally blind herself, teaches her comrades in darkness the art of reading and writing Braille, sewing, brush making and many other useful and entertaining things.

Further information and applications for these services may be obtained through the Aid to the Blind offices in the court house here, Miss Burneson stated.

Because of its song, the hermit thrush is also called the swamp angel and American nightingale.

YANKEES CAN SEW UP AMERICAN LOOP FLAG CHASE TODAY

All Bombers Need Is Victory Over Detroit After Thursday Win

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
The long delayed day on which the New York Yankees can clinch the American league pennant under their own power in one game has arrived. All the Bombers need is to beat the Detroit Tigers this afternoon.

They smothered the Tigers for the second straight time yesterday with Lefty Marius Russo showing World Series form in a two-hit 1-0 shutout. The only run of the game came on three singles in the first inning and caused Rufus Gentry his second 1-0 defeat since joining the Tigers earlier this month.

This success and Cleveland's split of a doubleheader at Boston eliminated the Indians mathematically. The Washington Senators, who had held on stubbornly to a remote pennant possibility, collapsed before the St. Louis Browns 12-3 in a night game.

Chico's Drop A's
Cleveland was overpowered by the Red Sox 13-7 in the first game, but the Tribe took the nightcap 6-4 with a 15-hit attack of its own.

In the other American league game Orval Grove pitched the Chicago White Sox to a 5-2 verdict over the Philadelphia Athletics. Alpha Brazil gave up three runs and Harry Brecheen a fourth as the Dodgers defeated the Cardinals 4-3 for Whitlow Wyatt's 10th consecutive triumph and 14th of the year. Wyatt, although he hurt his knee early in the game and limped during the late innings, allowed just eight hits.

The outcome enabled the Dodgers to hold second place in the National league against a 3-2 triumph by the Cincinnati Reds over the New York Giants in a night game. Pittsburgh was beaten 2-1 by the five-hit hurling of Jim Tobin of the Boston Braves and the Chicago Cubs scored six runs in the sixth to nose out the Phillies 8-7.

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—For the 10th time in 11 years hoss-trainer Hirsch Jacobs has saddled his 100th winner—the other year he had only 98.... Fans with mathematical minds will now start figuring what a $2 parlay would be worth.... Lefty Gomez, who used to be a $20,000 a year pitcher, now collects $100 a game from the Bushwicks—and doesn't have Grandma Murphy waiting in the bullpen.... The Army football team (we mean West Point, of course) is taking the "T" formation very seriously. Line-coach Herman Hickman, Major Andy Gustafson and Capt. Spec Moore all went to Baltimore to watch the Bears against the Redskins then turned up in Philadelphia for the Bears-Eagles game.

A well-informed Ohio source (Fritz Howell, if you're looking for him Sunday) tips Ohio State's 17-year-olds to outscore the mighty Iowa Seahawks in tomorrow's big upset.... His idea is that Illinois didn't have a thing for the Seahawks to beat last week and that precision Paul Brown wouldn't be grinning like a vegetarian on meatless day unless he had something up his sleeve.

(Putting the World Series catchers on the receiving end.) Bill Dickey, Yankees—one of the game's great catchers, Bill has played in seven World Series and seven All-Star games since 1932.... Got a late start this season but has made up for it by hitting better than .360.... Only thing against Bill is that he's 36 years old.

Walker Cooper, Cardinals—does the talking and hitting for the Cooper-Cooper battery.... He's another of the rarest species of 1943 baseball bird—a 300 hitter.... When the Coopers were in school, Walker was the only boy able to handle brother Mort's speed and the teacher persuaded him to become a catcher—showing the pitfalls of education.

McKee Signs Again As Cincinnati Manager

CINCINNATI, Sept. 24.—William W. (Bill) McKee renewed his contract as manager of the Cincinnati Reds Thursday, signing for one year at an undisclosed salary. McKee, who came to the Reds in the winter of 1937, lifted the club from the National league cellar to fourth place in 1938, to league champion in 1939 and to the world title in 1940.

His original contract called for $25,000 a year plus a $5,000 bonus if home attendance exceeded a certain figure.

Army Band To Play
COLUMBUS, Sept. 24.—An Army Specialized Training program band will substitute for Ohio State university's famed marching band at the Ohio State-Iowa Seahawks football game here Saturday, because of incomplete organization of the university band.

Says Allies Can Break
Germany's West Wall

LONDON, Sept. 24.—The house of commons was told by a man who saw Hitler's vaunted west wall from the inside that "it doubtless is very strong" but not so strong that Allied invaders couldn't break through.
Naval Commander R. M. Prior, a Briton who escaped after being captured at Dieppe and finally reached safety by way of Spain after nine months of wandering in France, declared:
"In my view it could be assaulted and breached by a determined assault, well organized."

Prior walked through France, disguised as a French workman after dropping from a German hospital train. He said that during his flight he had opportunity for a close inspection of part of the wall.
Each soldier going overseas is accompanied by from five to 12 tons of equipment.

They Need a
"Warm Morning" Coal Heater!

Don't buy a coal heater unless you need one! But if you DO need one, consider the merits of a WARM MORNING Coal Heater! Its attended durable construction does away with all the disadvantages you always associate with the old type cellar coal furnace.
Check these points, then come in and see it for yourself. Colder weather's coming—fuel may be scarce—DO IT TODAY!

Start a fire but once a year!
Heats all day and night without refueling!
Burns any kind of coal!
No clinkers
Saves fuel and work!
Requires less attention than most furnaces!
